

Andrzej Sarnacki SJ

Institutional Changes for the Polish Church
in Facing New Challenges
(1989–2005)

An Enquiry from a Social Science and Social Philosophy Perspective

Akademia Ignatianum
Wydawnictwo WAM
Kraków 2013

Table of contents

Abbreviations	9
Introduction	11
I. The Church in transforming Polish society	21
1. Introduction – historical background	23
2. The Catholic Church in the context of transforming society	29
2.1. Political background: from totalitarianism to democracy	29
2.1.1. Brief historical note	29
2.1.2. Church's interplay	33
2.1.3. The outcome	37
2.2. Economic background: from a controlled to a free market	40
2.2.1. Socialist economy	40
2.2.2. Economic liberalisation in Poland	41
2.2.3. Phases of economic transformation: successes and failures	42
2.2.4. Church's interplay	45
2.3. Socio-cultural background: from dualism to pluralism	49
2.3.1. General demands of the socio-cultural analysis	49
2.3.2. General framework of Polish culture and society	52
2.3.3. Socio-cultural transformation in Poland: between homo sovieticus and homo oeconomicus	53
2.3.3.1. Transforming society	54
2.3.3.2. General schema of the ongoing cultural change	55
2.3.3.3. The present condition of Polish society and culture	58
2.3.4. Religious dimension	65
2.3.4.1. Specific historical features	66
2.3.4.2. What accessible sociological surveys show today	67
2.3.4.3. Some general features of contemporary Polish Catholicism	72
2.3.4.4. Catholic milieu	73
2.3.5. Efforts of Church authorities	75
3. The internal reality of the Catholic Church	79
3.1. The Second Vatican Council and its perception in Poland	79
3.2. The figure of John Paul II	80

3.3. The Second Plenary Synod	82
3.4. Level of education of the clergy	82
3.5. The laity, Catholic movements, lack of elites	83
3.6. “Radio Maryja” and fundamentalist trends	84
3.7. Jubilee 2000	86
3.8. Scandals and reactions	87
II. New challenges and the Church’s reactions	91
1. Introduction – need of a global perspective	93
2. Oncoming forces and phenomena that challenge the social order	97
2.1. Secularisation – a challenge to the relevance of the Church	97
2.2. The challenge of finding its place and defining its role in a democratic society	107
2.2.1. Church-state relation in a democracy	107
2.2.2. Civil society, social capital, and the social role of the Church	113
2.3. Responsible participation in the project of modernisation	118
2.3.1. Liberalism, individualism, pluralism and (post)modernism	118
2.3.2. The growing role of knowledge in society	125
2.3.3. The Church in a new cultural environment	126
2.3.4. The Church in Poland	129
2.4. Staying relevant – facing the norm of economic success	135
2.4.1. Between collectivism and economic liberalism	135
2.4.2. The challenge of globalisation	140
2.4.3. Religious economics	147
3. Internal challenges for the Church	155
3.1. Fundamentalism as a negative reaction	155
3.2. The crisis of leadership after the death of John Paul II	158
3.3. Squaring with communism	159
3.4. The challenge of a new generation	162
3.5. Pastoral work and its mass scale vs. lack of elites	163
3.6. Bound by the chains of its own tradition	164
4. Reactions of the Church’s authorities up to this time	165
4.1. Risk of political engagement	165
4.2. Church and society: the possibility to miss each other	171
4.3. The Church’s comprehension of economic reality	172
4.4. Willingness to change	178
4.4.1. To define its stand anew	179
4.4.2. “Ad hanc perennem reformationem”?	184

III. Organisational theories and models dealing with change	187
1. Introduction – a new perspective	189
2. Management: basic terms and models	191
2.1. The 7S McKinsey Model	191
2.2. The Bell Curve model and management by objectives	198
3. The role of learning	205
3.1. Personal mastery	207
3.2. Mental models	208
3.3. Shared vision	210
3.4. Team learning	211
3.5. Systems Thinking (ST) and the role of hidden mechanisms	213
4. The role of knowledge	219
4.1. Relevance of Knowledge Management (KM)	219
4.2. Four elements that structure KM	222
4.2.1. What kind of knowledge?	223
4.2.2. The core capacities of the organisation	227
4.2.3. The role of innovation	229
4.2.4. Traps and dangers: core rigidities	234
4.3. Ways of introducing KM	239
5. The role of corporate culture	243
5.1. The importance and elements of corporate culture	243
5.2. Leadership and typology of basic assumptions	248
5.3. How to change culture	252
IV. Framework of learning: practical application of the managerial theories to the Catholic Church and their stand according to Catholic Teaching	261
1. Introduction – proposing management	263
2. Grounds for the use of principles of management in the Church's state of affairs	265
2.1. 'Ecclesia semper reformanda'	265
2.2. Church's restraints	266
2.3. Why management	269
2.4. Reconciling some contradictions	272
3. Key factors of strategic changes in the Polish Church	277
3.1. Positioning diagnostic results	277
3.2. To define anew its place in society in a meaningful, modern way	280
3.3. Conditions for changes	287
3.4. Using available resources	298

4. Church's universal criteria for its own conduct	301
4.1. Church-state relationship and politics	302
4.2. Church's attitude to economic systems	304
4.3. The Church in socio-cultural environment	306
5. Final conclusions	309
Last word – perspectives	311
Bibliography	313